What is the traffic light system?

Student Council looked at the behaviour policy and brainstormed what we liked and what we wanted to change.

We wanted to make our behaviour policy really positive so we each made suggestions.

We decided on a traffic light system called 'Green Days'

What happens First?

- Every day, everyone has their name on the green traffic light.
- Everyone has to work together to stay on the green side- this is a green day

What happens if you get a warning?

- If you do something that is not demonstrating the right behaviour you will be given an oral warning.
- If you continue to not follow instructions or misbehave, you will have your name moved to amber.
- If you correct your behaviour you will move back to green.
- You can still have a green day if you move back from Amber.
- However, if more than one person moves to Amber, you cannot have a green day.

What happens if you move to red?

- If you move to red then you will get a time out
- However, if you rectify your behaviour you will be able to go back to amber then green
- If you get a red warning then your class cannot have a green day.
- If the same person stops the class from having a green day, they will have to speak to Mrs Vassiliou or Mrs Yarwood.

What happens at the end of the week?

- On a Friday, each class' Student Council members will count up how many green days they had.
- They will fill in a chart in the hall each week.
- At the end of each term, the class with the most green days wins a prize.
- This can be a trip out, a party, games/toys for your class, a non uniform day etc.
